

Texas State University
Fraternity and Sorority Recommitment & Reinstatement Program
Spring Semester 2018

INTRODUCTION

On November 14, 2017, Dr. Denise Trauth, President of Texas State, suspended activities of all university Greek fraternity and sorority chapters as a result of the tragic death of Matthew Ellis, a Phi Kappa Psi pledge. The chapters were prohibited from holding new-member events, chapter meetings, social functions, and philanthropic activities until a thorough review of the Greek Affairs system was completed.

Dr. Joanne Smith, Vice President for Students Affairs, was given the responsibility to initiate the review of the Greek Affairs system and propose recommendations for reinstating fraternity and sorority chapters that demonstrated a commitment to the core values of Texas State and the ideals established by their respective national organizations.

A Greek Affairs Advisory Task Force consisting of twenty-four (24) members was formed to participate in the comprehensive review. The Task Force included university staff and faculty, some who have served as advisors to Greek chapters, external alumnae advisors and housing corporation members, Student Presidents of each Greek Governing Council and the President of the Greek Programming Board. The charge to the Greek Affairs Advisory Task Force was:

(1) to determine best practices and actions that would develop a positive Greek culture where the priority was on safety of students, commitment to the core values of Texas State, and commitment to the ideals of the chapter's respective national organization.

(2) to present to the President the recommendations and actions for chapters in good standing to be reinstated to the Texas State University Greek Affairs system.

These approved recommendations by the President of Texas State outlines the key components, strategies, and practices that the Interfraternity Council (IFC), Panhellenic Council, National Pan-Hellenic Council (NPHC) and Multicultural Greek Council (MGC) chapters in good standing will abide by to develop a positive Greek culture at Texas State, make a commitment to the core values of Texas State, and make a commitment to the ideals of their respective national organizations.

Dr. Joanne Smith, Vice President for Student Affairs
